

As it is our final week before the Christmas holidays, we will not be setting any formal Maths or English tasks - instead, take a look at some of these Christmas 'Pick n Mix' activities and complete as many as you can!

Get Researching

Christmas looks different across the globe - use your knowledge of European countries to research festive traditions in two countries that are not the UK. Can you spot any similarities or differences to your own celebrations?

Get Singing

Although we are not currently enjoying our traditional singing practises in school, we would love to hear about your favourite Christmas songs! Organise a sing-a-long with your family or even your friends over Zoom (with adult guidance).

Get Calculating

Find yourself a catalogue for your favourite store, wither a hard copy or an online version. You have a budget of £50 - what can you add to your Christmas list to buy that keeps you within budget?

Get Writing

As the big day looms nearer, can you write your own acrostic poem for the word 'Christmas' - write this out carefully and decorate the border.

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas...

Get Cooking

This is my favourite time of year for cooking some of my favourite dishes - what do you and your family like to eat in the holidays? Choose a family favourite and get cooking with the help of an adult - take a photo of your finished dish and send it in!

Get Constructing

As the elves busy themselves making toys, why not join in and get creative? Design your own Christmas toy and make it using household and recyclable materials - we would love to see a picture of the final piece!

Get Discovering

Christmas over the years has changed - imagine what it was like to celebrate a Victorian Christmas! Research this and create a poster to explain what you have found out - think about decorations, traditions and food!

The Empty Box

Do you think you have a better idea of a piece of work you could do related to Christmas? Complete your idea and explain what you did.

Get Persuading

Have you ever wondered what it is like to visit Santa at his workshop? What must his house look like? Design and draw your own version of Santa's grotto, then write a holiday advert persuading people to visit in the run up to Christmas - remember, be as persuasive as possible!
